PAYMENTS EXPERTS TO ADDRESS ONLINE RESOURCES CONFERENCE

CHANTILLY, Va., January 25, 2008 – Online Resources Corporation (Nasdaq: ORCC), a leading provider of web-based financial services, today announced its line-up of keynote speakers for its Client Summit to be held March 10-12, 2008 in San Diego, California.

Poised to address the conference theme of “Innovation,” these prominent industry leaders will discuss the latest in payment trends, emerging payment applications and the future technologies that financial world leaders are demanding to be developed now. The keynote speakers are:

- Richard Oliver, Executive Vice President, Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta
Mr. Oliver led the Federal Reserve’s recent Retail Payment Research Project, which tracks the trends and current makeup of the retail payments market in the U.S. Mr. Oliver will cover the latest changes in payments mix, and comment on future industry directions.
- Richard K. Crone, Principal, Crone Consulting LLC
Widely recognized as a top payments processing expert, Mr. Crone is a leading consultant to banks, billers, card issuers and other payment processors. Mr. Crone will address emerging payment applications including mobile, stored-value, contact-less and PIN-less payments.
- James C. Hale, Founding General Partner, FT Ventures
FT Ventures is the leading venture capital investor in financial technology, with backing from 40 of the world’s largest financial institutions. Mr. Hale is founding managing partner of the firm. He will provide a preview of future technologies and applications.
